Financial Stress Score of Businesses

The Dun & Bradstreet Financial Stress Score provides predictive insights of the businesses that are most likely to fail within the next 12-18 months. Financial Stress Scores are categorized as Low, Medium or High.

- Companies with Low Financial Stress Scores are good candidates for strategic partnerships and expansion leaning incentives.
- Businesses in the Medium category are prime candidates for proactive outreach.
- Often, employers in the High category have already had a layoff event or are starting to take steps to close operations, resulting in a need for Rapid Response or Rapid Re-employment engagement.
- Unclassified Businesses have not been assigned a Financial Stress Score by Dun & Bradstreet.
